ANNOUNCEMENTS

“... every ally the United States has had against the communists in recent years, our own government has eventually betrayed economically and/or politically. The long list includes China, Cuba, Taiwan, Vietnam, Rhodesia, Nicaragua and now South Africa. Why then, when the time comes, will not this government betray its own people?” R.E. McMasters, Jr., No Time For Slaves, 1986.

MILITIA PERSPECTIVES

It's been a difficult month here at the CFP offices. The staff has been emotionally distressed about reports that the total public and private debt of the United States lies between $30 and $60 TRILLION. It is sobering indeed to contemplate the pending financial debacle which threatens our collective financial security. Then we heard the announcement which changed everything.

Yes indeed, the democrats, under the leadership of Saint Clinton announced that he had performed an economic miracle. In fact, they have engineered a budget surplus amounting to some $TRILLIONS of dollars which will allow us to pay off the federal deficit in just a few short, more specifically the year 2015. By all that's Holy and truthful, it is no small exaggeration to say that we were astounded! The federal government really spend itself into perpetual prosperity! the newfound budget surpluses resulted Clinton claimed from his “fiscal discipline” offering to fund a new wave of government spending based on new found surpluses. The more you look the more you find.

Proof? Who needs proof when our leaders promise prosperity? If necessary, we need look no further than our international bankers for honesty and integrity. Since gold is now almost worthless, after all what can hold a candle to . Bank of England selling off a reported 415 tons of gold of its 715 tons of gold reserves of public gold, the wealth no longer needed to bolster up the pound sterling. Selling it to buy more Eurodollars, which are backed by the real tangible faith and confidence. And those bankers unselfishly purchasing as much gold as possible out of humanitarian values to store in private banks. God love a self-sacrificing banker. Gold dropping to $255/troy oz., the lowest since at least 1979.

Phooey to Reganomics and all those other stupid .conomics invented by crusty old politicians. We could just continue to mortgage Social Security, pensions, and all those other off-budget funds with second, third, and howsoever many bond issues it takes. Who the Hell cares, it works! Sometimes things get difficult, even for politicians. But we don't elect them for their honesty and integrity; we select them for their creativity. Look how they took the great idea of looting the tobacco industry for funds to care for the sick and needy and have rechanneled the money to political projects. In slow times, like now, when it takes a while to figure out how to loot and rape another politically incorrect industry (firearms perhaps?), we can just go steal another whole country! The evidence was overwhelming, the New World Order really works; ain't America great?

After our late night marathon of deductive reasoning, things just fell apart. Hysterical laughter pealed through the halls. So many people fell out of their chairs gasping for breath we had to install seat belts. Caught short on paper bags, we shut all the doors and windows to cut the flow of oxygen. That, of course, didn't help the office boy who broke his arm while trying to glue FRN's to the ceiling.

We called 911. They showed up two days later. By that time we had already burned the history books and got a jump on the market by ordering all the tulip bulbs, tea and Florida swampland our checkbooks could handle... and then some. After all, deficits don't matter any more! In no time at all we'll be so far in debt to the international private bank, the Federal Reserve, we'll all be rich!

Pain is a remarkable educator. With coherence painfully restored, we soon realized the battle for mens minds has moved to yet another front.

Left wing fanatics and empire seeking agency cadre have recently have been making much ado about the "plans" of radical "right wing" religeous and militia groups to greet the year 2000 millenium with acts of violence. The alleged reason(s) this may be so is more than somewhat obscure. But, since we are as seeped in knowledge of radical causes (like honesty, character, ethics, and morality count in public and private, etc.) as we are in international finance, you guessed it, we have our own two bits to throw in the proverbial pot.

We'll do something radical and use a little logic here. Who, if anyone would benefit from initiating civil strife?

Let's face it. Most of the generally dumb public only want one thing out of the millenium, a fine time and a good drunk. (party and booze) Committed religious group are comprised of members waiting, not planning or preparing. These people are not only content, but committed to the premise they won't be called upon to actually do anything, anything at all. They are at rest, secure in the belief of compensation without contribution, reward without responsibility, and complacency without reasoning. Safely entrenched in the comfort zone of the middle class, for them the future lies with escapism, nirvana without battle; rapture, not warfare.

What about the radical left, the political activists of the liberal-socialist elite? Not yet committed communists, these willing dupes are idealists who have bought the socialist lie. By virtue of their existenae and intellect they are entitled to an ever increasing share of those who work. The socialist is committed to the belief that they are their brother's keeper. The generally dumb public has yet to understand that to the liberal-socialist their responsibility as keeper implies their natural role as their brother's jailer, not his guardian. Yet, while willing to condone any act, however heinous, to preseve public looting and control, they will never do the deed themselves. Unwilling to work, they have a symbionic relationship with government. In exchange for maintenance of the govermemnt agent, they can rely on resident goons to maintain order in the looting process. Political empowerment is realized in proportion to the funds available to purchase priviledge. These folks are dangerous only when cornered. Count on them to be herald the millenium in celebration of mother gaia, seeking parties and enlightenment in crystals.

People in the constitutional militia and others working to preserve our liberty and lawful government are primarily level headed family oriented folks. Those not on watch against political adventurism will pretty much herald hte millenium watching the tube at home. The millenium has no special signifcance, except perhaps for those tied to the occult. (By the way Hillary, how is Elenor doing these days?). We'll probably be sitting right here burnign the midnight oil at CFP headquarters, listening to the scanners, sipping root beer, and debriefing the scout dogs on the whereabouts of the boys in black.

Certainly the potential for unprovoked violence lies with assorted crazies, mentally deranged individuals. But these people have always been with us, and will continue. Unfortunately, radical environmentalism, provoked by government endorsement of scientifically unfounded postulates like global warning to promote political objectives, gives cause for irrational acts. One notable example is that of Theodore Kazinsky, of “unibomber” fame, who reportedly focused on Al Gore’s book “Earth In The Balance” to justify his irrational acts. FBI Director Lousi Freeh has admitted animal rights terrorism vandals are the most “recognizable single-issue terrorists” (trade journal, June/July, 1999, Security Products). How is it then the militia keeps coming up in public discussions

Our focus narrows as we consider foreign nations and their agnets. The massive effort that went into alienating foreigners these last few years was not simply for fun, humanitarian or moral purposes. Neither were the incidents of unprovoked bombings, invasion, and political harassment purely the result of political bumbling and ineptitude. A reasoning person might reflect on the adage that “in politics nothing happens by accident.” More likely it was done precisely for the purpose of provoking terrorism at home. If a series of irrational acts continues without reasonable cause, we must assume there is a purpose behind the irrationality.

This leads us to those public employees who are providing the functions of government. The evidence clearly shows it has been “public” agencies, and only agencies, committing atrocities, fraud, deceit, in the name of goverment for these many years. Federal agents have a long history of performing, instigating, and otherwise stirring the pot of social strife. No doubt their objective, in part, is to bring federal dollars to agency coffers, and satisfy the demands of their political masters who have yet another agenda. Who in their right mind indeed would do harm to the American public? Who has the motivation, who is the position to realize political gain? The evidence suggests we follow the pointing finger to its source to find the real crazies.

Does the militia intend, plan or otherwise scheme to start a fight or otherwise do harm to the country or citizens of which we are a part. Nope. Not now, not for the millenium or any other time, and the agency boys know it. If there is a physical fight, it will be govermten that chooses to do so. The agencies also know this and it scares them silly. The gullible public does not, yet.... But some of the natives are starting to learn and they are definitely getting restless, and the liberal-socialists on the radical left are desparate to GDP from learning.

“It just makes sense when you think about it. Most people know violence is a last resort, often as dangerous to the doer as to the victim. Only a tiny handful of fanatics and a huge army of cops eager to advance their careers actually want people to initiate violence.”
Claire Wolfe, 101 Things To Do ‘Til The Revolution.

NOTED IN PASSING

More Tales From The Dark Side

Freedom lovers nation-wide are taking interest in the recent legislation in Connecticut and California. The federal agenda to realize total civilaian disarmement is obviously in good health and proceeding at the state level. No doubt to some extent each will be successful. Success, as Beijing Bill would agree, depends upon how it is defined. What we have here may be a win-win situation.

In Connecticut the mere allegation that a firearm owner may do harm to themselves or the “public” is sufficient to justify raids, confiscation, and prosecution. America becoming great place to live, is that not so comrade block supervisor? In California it appears that an entire class of semi-automatic firearms, not merely the lowly SKS, are now officially banned from civilian ownership. No doubt the law in California was adopted out of political necessity. We speculate the legislaiton was passed not so much due to federal insistence but as an act to protect legislators against citizen retribution.

On one hand these state efforts may strike a chord with patriotic Americans who take offense at the criminalization of law abiding citizens. No doubt the state legislators will engender even more contempt for those pushing unlawful legislation and strengthen public resolve toward resistance. Who knows, even Charlton Heston may eventually have to eat his words suggesting that the mere possession of firearms is sufficient to deter tyranny.

We might also consider these legislative initiatives a success if they result only in the enthusiastic disarmament of loyal Tory socialists. It's probably a pretty good thing liberals buy into this gun control baloney. Given the pending crises we would rather have them willingly shoot themselves in the intellect now than have the potential to shoot at patriots at some future date. It appears to be some sort of a social "self-correcting" problem, in nature it's lemmings, sort of a time-delayed Arkside phenomena for the misled and misinformed and intellectually impaired. Regardless, they are just as much the victim of bad government as those physically abused. The worst thing we can do is assume They don't want our guns, they want our freedom.

Make no mistake, the current war of words is a contest for legitimacy in the public mind. The insurgents in government need the passive acquiescence of the majority. What a great time to make sure of citizen support by mandating their dependency in a future crisis. These legislative acts are a wonderful way to demonstrate what the status of ordinary citizens will be in the New World Order. On the same note, freedom loving NATO/UN forces are also busy bringing peace to Kosovo, not by lawful legislative initiative, but by conducting house to house searches and confiscating all weapons.

Speaking of words, with elections coming and campaigns already underway, the candidates are enthralling citizens with tales lauding the greatness of our "democracy". True democracy according to Lenin, they are not told, can only be realized under communism because only then will every one have an equal say in society. Already we see there is a wide choice of candidates for the next presidential election. Unfortunately, our choice will be strictly limited by the CFR to only those with a globalist agenda. The selection is obviously must be either "bad" or "worse". What is the purpose in voting for the lesser of two evils except to become a party to that evil? What a remarkable coincidence, isn't that remarkably like the choices under communism? Ain't democracy great comrade, hard to make mistake when free to choose between politically same candidates carefully selected by committee of people?

"Democracy is indispensable to socialism." Vladimir Lenin

House bars burning of US flag. As symbol of America values abhor any who burn flag but have clear charge. government has absolutely no authority to abrogate first amendment, illegal on face. Subsequently like the attack on tobacco, there is no limit on what govt may ban burning. Sad and again unconstitutional if banned burning UN Flag. Hazard is that it opens door to abrogating other freedoms of expression. Next it will be illegal to criticize federal government. Flag burning is amending whole constitution, symbolology not limited to flag, but ALL symbolology, govt can control everything by extension. Look at what they construed from the commerce clause of constitution.. Got to take good with the bad. On other hand, fringe flag, symbol of corporate US. Heaven knows, administration is burning flag in effigy every time commits unconstitutional law or act in everyday occurrence.

in Kosovo UN/US playing serious game of cross and double cross.

its not the criminal mind we fear so much in trying to circumvent the gun laws to obtain and use guns against a very few law abiding/peaceful citizens, it's the criminal mind in the legislatures which seek to abrogate the law shall not infringe to usurp the law of the land and deprive all of freedom. Matter of degree the latter is more significant than the former and the one we must fear the most. and most dangerous. if left to their own devices, would be far more armed citizens and far better balance between quick and dead criminals.

HOME CANNING PRIMER

Basic Preparedness In A Jar

Knowledge of this Generations old Practice Could Save You from Starvation

A lot of us are looking at the future with more than a little concern and interest. What some see as our artificial economy, the fall of the Asian and Russian economies, Y2K and so forth. And we are preparing for the possibility of a long stretch of hard times, possibly worse than most of us can imagine. We see former high-income Russians for a loaf of bread, and are told that families go days without something to eat. Couldn't happen here you say? Wrong, Americans have become spoiled by years, even generations of relative ease.

Back no so long ago, nearly every household canned food out of its own backyard. Including not only jams and jelly but also pickles, fruit, meat, fish, and most vegetables. What has happened that has caused this easy to do art to Vanish? We have learned to rely on flown in, out of town, out of season foods and plastic wrapped meals, abundantly available at the neighborhood super markets. Also to blame is the hurry scurry rat race lifestyle that has become the norm.

Where our forefathers and mothers thought it was provident to raise, can and store food for hard times, many folks today scarcely store enough for 2 or 3 days, let alone raise and can there own. You can home can anything you buy in a can at the local grocery store plus a whole lot more. Everyone knows that you can home can tomatoes, green beans and sweet corn but look at all this other stuff that can be home caned:

Moose Stew	Bologna	Walnuts	Asparagus	Smoked Trout
Corned Beef	Pound Cake	Chili	Venison	Mushrooms
Salmon	Fish Loaf	Wild Greens	Spaghetti Sauce	Hot Sauce
Meat Balls	Banana Bread	Taco Filling	Chicken/noodles	Pheasant
Pecans	Salsa	Turkey Breast	Blueberries	Elk Roast
Catsup	Ham

This list could go on for pages and pages, but you get the point. If you are an avid hunter, fisherman, or forager home canning will certainly meet your needs. Many wild foods are seasonal and home canning allows us to eat well from the woods and garden, year round. This should be carefully thought about as we can store up as much food as we want to feed our families no matter what comes.

Food is processed at home using two very effective and safe methods. The hot water bath and the pressure canner. The hot water bath is used to can high acid foods, such as fruit, including tomatoes, jams, jellies, preserves, and pickles of all sorts. This method is safe for these foods as it boils the filled, capped jars for a period of time allowing the jars to completely seal on removal from the kettle. (You will usually be serenaded by a chorus of musical pings and pops as they seal.) This method is safe for high acid foods that do not require the high boiling temperature that the low acid foods such as vegetables, meat, and fish. These low acid foods must be canned using a pressure canner.

The pressure canner cans jars of food without being immersed in water using only a little water to create steam under pressure. The pressure raises the temp. of the canner to that, sufficient to kill harmful organisms that could cause food poisoning. Many people are afraid of the pressure canner, fearing it will blow up under use. This is an unjust fear, because if watched vigilantly it is as safe as any other kitchen tool. Then a lot of people fear that they will poison themselves or their families by home canning. Not very likely. Using proper canning methods and good common sense, home canned food is actually safer to eat than store bought food. We are typically cleaner and more cautious in our own kitchens than most commercial businesses, and I know of no one who has passed around salmonella, hepatitis or botulism from their home canned product. If you can boil water and tell time you can home can. Reading usually helps but someone else can read the directions if need be.

Necessary Equipment

Jars are an essential; sure they are a bit expensive if you bought new jars now. But never buy new jars unless you just can't find any anywhere else. Ask friends and relatives if they have any canning jars they are not using. Put ads in the local paper and on Bulletin boards, asking for free or low priced jars. Check out flea markets, yard sales, and auctions. Many older people are down sizing and no longer canning as much. And will be thrilled to sell or give away jars at a very low price. Be sure you are getting canning jars and not juice jars, peanut butter jars, etc. A canning jar ring and lid must fit the jar correctly or the jar will not seal. You will need lids, used only once in both wide mouth and regular sizes, and rings which screw on snugly, to hold the lid in place during processing. These rings can be reused for years. Rust is a rings enemy, it makes them weak. So keep your rings clean and dry. And don't keep your canned food except for a few pickles, which are, processed cold in jars with the rings on. This attracts dampness and rust. A jar lifter is nearly essential to lift hot jars into and out of a boiling canner. Without one you will burn your hands at times. A canning funnel is a great help. It allows you to fill jars without getting food on the jar rim. Such spills can prevent a jar from sealing. You will need a canner. Most home canners have a hot water bath canner and a pressure canner. I would suggest that the novice purchase a hot water bath canner for learning the basics, then progress to the pressure canner as their skills and confidence increases. And last but definitely not least, buy a canning book or obtain literature from somewhere. You can not do without a good book to guide you, as each food is different, and to be safe you must look up the product before canning it.

Home Canning in Easy Steps

Get out your canning book and read thoroughly the section on the product you will be canning. Adhere to the directions religiously. Do not double recipes or alter them. Thoroughly wash and examine all jars. Look for cracks in the jar sides and run your fingertip around the inside of the rim feeling for small nicks. Discard jars with small nicks or cracks no matter how small. Nicks will prevent a jar from sealing no matter how small, and a crack will almost certainly result in a broken jar and loss of food. For products that require very little time in the hot water bath such as jams, jellies, or none at all, such as some pickles, etc. sterilize the jars by boiling in the hot water canner, then remove them as you need to fill them. Always keep them hot. Fill hot jars with hot food and cool jars with cool food, even if you later add boiling water or syrup. This protects the jars from cracking. Likewise never set hot jars on a counter top or other cold surface. The bottoms will crack out. Instead fold a bath towel and fill, then later cool hot jars on it as it provides insulation. Remember hot combined with cold will crack hot jars!

Always allow sufficient headspace (empty space) at the top of your filled jars. Check your canning book for each food. Some foods expand others contain acid that will blacken the jar lid. Remember that changes in altitude affect the time needed to process foods in the hot water bath. Times are calculated for 1000 feet and below. If you live at an altitude over 1000 feet above sea level you must adjust the time in the hot water bath by 5 minutes longer for 1,001 to 3000 Feet. 10 minutes for 3,001 to 6000 and 6001 to 8000 15 minutes. With the pressure canner you likewise need to adjust the pressure at which you can. With a weighted gauge you will be canning at 10 PSI at 1,000 feet and below. And 15 at all altitudes above that. With a dial gauge you will be canning at 11 PSI below 2000 feet. Increasing one PSI per every 2,000 Feet above that.

Always run a warm damp cloth around the rim of each jar before placing the lid, as any bit of food will make the seal fail.

Boil lids in a small saucepan, and have them hot when placing them on the jars. Tighten the lids to settle them firmly on the jars. Do not use excessive force or a jar wrench. You will probably crack the jar. The ring only needs to be firmly snug to hold the lid in place while the processing takes place. It does not cause the jar to seal. Work quickly and efficiently to fill and cap the jars. This keeps the food hot reducing breakage or other mistakes.

One hint that I have learned is to warm up the pressure canner just before placing hot filled jars into it, as if it is cold. You can easily get into a situation where you break hot jars with a cold surface. Like wise if you must at water to a hot bath canner use a kettle with boiling water, pour the water between not on the jars.

Process the food. Remember to count your hot water bath canners time from the time it you put the lid down or incomplete processing will result and spoiled food later. With the pressure canner, you must first exhaust the canner by leaving the pressure valve open until it blows a steady stream of steam. Then close the valve and wait for the pressure to build to the required level to process the food.

Adjust the heat under your pressure canner to maintain correct pressure. You must be attentive, and not go out to garden. Pressure variance can cause broken jars or spoiled food. When the processing is done quickly remove the jars from the hot water bath canner, placing them on a dry folded towel to cool. With a pressure canner, you must wait till the pressure drops to zero before opening it. Do not shortcut by tampering with the exhaust valve or you will break jars. Leave the jars alone to cool and seal. Don't poke the lids with your finger to hurry things along. You may end up with a jar with a so-so seal that will let go later on. Don't wipe the lids, just wait. And listen to the music of the ping ping that the sealing makes. That is truly music to the home canners ears.

When the jars are cool, check their seal. The center of the lid should indent, sucked in by a vacuum. Gently press your finger into the center it should not give and should feel firm. If a jar lid does give. Just reprocess the food from the start or eat it soon. Don't feel sad because you have "failed" just try to discover the reason, or if no reason is apparent, accept the fact that an occasional jar does break and lids sometimes do not seal. Remove the ring on all sealed jars and wash the jar with warm water to remove residue, then dry and store in a cool dark place. The ring does nothing after the jar is sealed, and leaving it on may cause condensation to collect, ending up in premature rust of the ring and maybe the lid itself.

There you done it and it was so easy and fun besides.

Common Sense Safety tips

Check seal and food appearance before each use. Lids should be tightly indented with no give, the food should be normal looking, without froth or any abnormal appearance. Smell each jar on opening any bad odor or any unusual odor indicates possible spoilage. Boil or otherwise cook Do Not Microwave all foods but pickles, jams, jellies, etc. for 10 to 15 minutes. Before tasting to kill any possible organisms. Spoilage is very rare in properly home canned foods. It is always best to be safe when in doubt throw it out.

DEATH OF A SOLDIER

Requiem For A Friend

"Our Country is in Mourning, for a soldier died today"

One time I had a conversation with an old soldier, he asked me a for a favor and I told him that I would try my best to make his request a reality. On June 15th Matthew Rogers past away, and I am gladly making good on his request.

Semper-Fi Matthew.

Just a Simple Soldier, Author Unknown

He was getting old and his hair was falling fast,
And he sat around telling stories of the past.
Of a war that he had fought in and the deeds that he had done,
In his exploits with his buddies; they were heroes, every one.
And though sometimes to his neighbors, his tales became a joke,
All his buddies listened, for they knew whereof he spoke.
But we will hear his tales no longer, for he has passed away,
And the worlds a little poorer, for a soldier died today.

No, he want be mourned by many, just his friends, children, and wife,
For he lived a very quiet sort of ordinary life.
He held a job, and raised a family, quietly going on his way,
And the world won't note his passing; though a soldier died today.

When politicians leave this earth, their bodies lie in state,
While thousands note their passing and proclaim that they were great.
Papers tell of their life stories from the time that they were young,
But the passing of a soldier goes unnoticed and unsung.

Is the greatest contribution to the welfare of our land,
Some jerk who breaks his promises and cons his fellow man?
Or the ordinary fellow, who in times of war and strife,
Goes off to serve his country and offer up his life?
The politician's stipend and the style in which he lives,
Are sometime disproportionate to the service that he gives,
While the ordinary soldier, who offered up his all,
Is paid off with a medal and perhaps a pension small.

It is easy to forget them, for it was long ago,
That husbands, sons, and fathers went to battle, but we know
It was not the politicians, with their compromise and ploys,
Who won for us the freedom that our country now enjoys.
Should you find yourself in danger with your enemies at hand,
Would you really want some cop-out politician with his waffling stand?
Or would you want a soldier who has sworn to defend,
His home, his kin, and country, and would fight until the end?

He was just a common soldier and his ranks are growing thin,
But his presence should remind us, we may need his likes again.
For when countries are in conflict, then we find the soldiers part,
Is to clean up all the troubles, that the politicians start.
If we can not do him honor while he's here to receive the praise,
Then at least let's give him homage at the ending of his days.
Perhaps a simple headline in the paper that might say:
"Our Country is in Mourning, for a Soldier Died Today"

WALKING THE WALK

Y2K Dinners & Meetings

We arrived at the house to find all of the electric lights turned out and Dietz lanterns were providing. Two full size tables set with a compliment of silver ware and fresh flowers, the napkins were even rolled in laurel leaves, the counters were covered with foods and salads and people were packed in the rooms conversing by the lantern light. What were they doing? I was one of 20 people who arrived for a Y2K dinner at a home in Lake Junaluska, North Carolina. The point of the meal was to try to get people that have been attending our Y2K meetings to utilize their grain mills and food preserves so that they could find out what worked and what didn't. Our host had decided to turn out the lights and imitate a black out and the guests were instructed to prepare their meals with as close to real life "worst case scenerio" conditions as they possibly could. The food was wonderful and everyone learned a thing or two. After dinner everyone in the group went around and told us about their dishes, how they were prepared, and how they simulated bad conditions. Most of the dishes were cooked with very little water, lots of long term storage foods were prepared. Home made bread was made, and more deserts than you could imagine. It was a great opportunity for us to come together and try out our ideas with others before a worst case senerio is starring us in the face. If you are interested in attending a Y2K meeting we meet the first and third weekend of every month at the Daily Bread Café at Lake Junaluska, North Carolina. Meetings start at 9:00 am sharp and last until 11:00. Two topics are covered at each meeting that will hopefully lead to you being better equipped with knowledge in lieu of what could possibly be our largest known of disaster.

Religion, politics society and economics are all interrelated.

“When people are irresponsible with regard to their duties in all areas of life, they are expressing a lack of religious faith. Government then fills this vacuum of irresponsibility and unbelief. In the long-term, all short-term government “blessings” turn into a “curse” on the people. R.E. McMaster, Jr., No Time For Slaves, 1986.

“So, the movement then toward a One-World Order will be a colossal failure. It is exactly the wrong thing at the wrong time in history. The problem is, those who favor a One-World Order control the economies and governments of the world. This means we will all have to suffer through their insanity and maybe a limited nuclear war.” R.E. McMaster, Jr., No Time For Slaves, 1986.

“Conflict is inevitable in nature as it swings from Yin and Yang, oscillating between the rights of the individual versus the rights of the group.” R.E. McMaster, Jr., No Time For Slaves, 1986.

FIELD EXPEDIENT NUCLEAR SHELTERS

Despite report and innuendoes heard from popular press over the years nuclear war does not mark the end of all life on earth, or even nuclear winter

Especially survivable, that is why Soviet Union, Switzerland, China and a few other countries have for years mounted a creditable civil defense system of public and private shelters.

Good news and bad news. Why, they understand nuclear war is not only survivable, but winnable. It's only you that doesn't think so dumbed down civilians.

You can run around like your ignorant neighbors, running in panic, without purpose, destination oblivion. or you can survive

What do you need? A very few basic tools, some resources and a positive attitude and a little common sense.

Yes, nuclear war is a terrible thing, 95 to 120 million, or half population may die in first strike, and affects, but if truth be known, if one could avoid being at the right place at the wrong moment, most will survive to die of disease, exposure, injury and starvation instead of blast, radiation, and effects of nuclear pulse. Only to survive for conventional attack? Maybe, so much for one world government, as goes up in Clinton [mushroom] clouds

Had heads buried in sand preparing for myopic Y2K which may or may not be a threatening event. Looking more like time to face real probability as atomic clock countdown to nuclear war you can almost hear the ticking ...

Even if little or no warning, God knows government isn't planning to help you OR the survivors. You wouldn't like obedient shelter life even if the feds provide "Help". Which would include your disarming, sharing your resources, yes ALL of them with improvident others.

So what can you do... answer is field expedient shelter. Visited issue some time ago. time now to think about the real threat. Heck you can survive a computer shutdown, but what about war?

PREAMBLES TO WORLD WAR III July/August 1999

Will we as aware individuals look back on 1999 and say "we saw it coming", we lived in a fools' paradise, or other anticipatory statement. Anticipating consequences to stupidity to national disarmament in an increasingly hostile world created by our own hand. Will the world government under the socialist NWO agents of the western powers prevail, or must we face the challenge of WWII with competing governments who also want NWO but under their control.

What will we say, if there are children left?

Is it just a little regional war for idealistic purposes. Of course not.

"Despite the high-flown phraseology, the doctrine of limited war is simply an artificial device to keep the advocates of balanced forces in business. ... A close examination of the doctrine indicates that can only lead to bankruptcy. ... Limited war is self-defeating. In any case, it can be fought only with the consent of both belligerents and is, for that reason, bound to end in a stalemate." Major Alexander P. de Seversky, America: Too Young To Die!, 1961.

What options are available for us to escape the debacle of Yugoslavia unscathed as a nation. The consequences are long term and serious. Has established the NATO as an aggressive organization committed to establishing a "western" dominated NWO system of governance by establishing sphere of influence/interest in eastern Europe. It destabilizes the entire region; a foothold in the region Russia cannot tolerate. If allowed to prevail no country is intrinsically safe from aggression. We have further alienated the Russians and those of the "soviet" persuasion, unified their people under communist leadership and planted the seeds of foment which would justify war against corporate US.

Further, the US led NATO cannot succeed. Even if NATO prevails it will be a pyrrhic victory. The region will effectively be destabilized and sets up a scenario for prolonged guerilla war which the US can not afford to maintain. Philosophically, it confirms intent of NWO World Governance which supercedes and violates state sovereignty at will. Abdicates concept of state or civil security, proposes militarism and terrorism as means of control. In short, sets stage for world war.

Security, but not sovereignty. Acts of international criminals/tyranny purely for political aggrandizement of totalitarian socialist world state.

But it's much, much worse. If you want bad relations, set yourself up as a leader of who openly violates every tenet of international law, breaks international agreements of non-aggression, treats other nations with contempt, Dangerous moves. Confronting Russia with alternative of total war. Desperate gamble. Guaranteeing wider war.

Of course, had to circumvent UN Security Council to avoid veto of military action by Russia. But, this was the NWO BIG MOVE. While previously united in the NWO goals toward totalitarian socialist government the united initiatives by US and Russia led by each presupposing they would achieve final control. This "BIG MOVE" blatant statement that NWO control by Western powers cut out Soviet Empire influence. Ultimate snub. Issue comes down not to negotiation, deliberation statesmanship but only thing left is hollow shell of NWO and UN purposes, and semblance of statecraft. Issue now is simply one of projected military power. Hence WWII
Got to destroy US. Get all young men (potential resistors), destroy economic reserve, tie up natural resources, destroy militia, confiscate arms, flood of refugees to US (destabilizing), economic disaster, ruin middle class (and potentially thinking), ONLY WAY TO BRING US easily into NWO without real fight. Confuse as to real enemy

Clinton made thru NATO unprovoked attack on purpose to destabilize region. Create major war on continent of Europe. Destroy remaining sovereign states, come under UN banner. UN has not condemned war for it is in its interest. Expansion of fighting on many fronts likely will not be controlled. With so many intentional fuses lit, hard to imagine. War intended for expansion, explains intentional bombing of Chinese embassy. Desperately need wider war, not only for benefit of big business and banks but to so weaken the population, resources and of US so as to make its subsequent forced entry into NWO less resistance than Yugoslavia. So Yugoslavia must perish, en toto if necessary. For no one can stand before the beast of the totalitarian socialism. War becomes more and more inevitable as Clinton drags the US Flag through the dirt so much and so often to the rest of the world it has become a dirty rag, with the very symbol of tyranny. A UN surrogate. good cop/bad cop.

Might conclude that against very principles on which this nation was founded and sets a frightening precedent that NATO, acting as UN military surrogate, retains the "right" to justify military intervention anywhere and in any sovereign state at any time in blatant violation of every national and international law, treaty and agreement. Sparks incentive to continue NWO disunity and disorder within our own borders to further the interests of totalitarian socialist world government

We recollect that King George demanded colonies to pay homage to foreign government, submit to foreign authority and capricious demands, provide tribute (Taxation without representation) to foreign authority, quarter foreign troops in homes, submit in thousands of ways to foreign dominion. In 1776 WE called it tyranny. IN 1999 we call it humanitarian intervention and accept the lie that nationalism is the culprit.

Messages in war in Kosovo is lies, no nation enjoys sovereignty with impunity; not even America.

To promote peace and stability, to prevent abuse of minority populations and enforce humanitarian values and making something called "peace" we congratulate ourselves for bombing Yugoslavia into rubble and decimating its civilian population and infrastructure.

Clinton appears determined in his arrogance to destroy NATO and US military capability. Indeed, if we give credence to Soviet defector Anatoliy Golitsyn (The Perestroika Deception) a principal goal of the "Soviet" hegemony is to realize the "break up of NATO and force a United States withdrawal from Europe." A debacle in the heart of the Balkans seems ripe for realization and the prediction . . . of his view of making the United States a "paper tiger" in the eyes of Communist countries and resulting in a weakening of American alliances world-wide. If this is not Clinton's intention, he is certainly making a good try at it.

Golitsyn (The Perestroika Deception) reminds us that the Sino-Soviet objective remains to realize an "East-West convergence and eventual world government on Communist terms... Could have fooled NATO and Clinton cronies who think they can structure a NWO without Russia remaining the "old maid" partner.

HAD to circumvent Security Council for fear of a Russian veto.

Clear that if Clinton fails to start a war with air power alone, likely and irrationally authorize tactical nukes in a last ditch effort to compel surrender immediately before or as introduction of ground troops.

Moving from Cold War to New World Order; Gorbachev Foundation motto... "Moving Toward a New Civilization" . Simply moving from overt military transition to global socialism from covert NWO system where military overtures are regional and surgical in nature. Objectives have not changed. Goal is still peace. Peace if you will recall is the absence of opposition to socialism. New World Order demands a certain amnesia about the character of socialism, the mass executions, continued espionage, remarkably successful, the commonly acknowledged absence of real "rights", sham of freedom of religion, the lies, deceptions, in short the Perestroika (deception), physical elimination of political liabilities. What is it that you don't understand about the NWO. Language terms, events, and, central personages remain remarkably constant and remain change, character of the movement and players is precisely the same What don't you understand about the NWO? Which has not stopped but adopted by American legislators.

So now we've sent our bombs, cruise missiles, and related "terrors" to make "peace" in Kosovo. Soon we intend to send in the "peace-makers", US troops under foreign command, to enforce the "peace".. If this makes sense to you, you'll love what's coming to the US. Already US Marines are practicing closing off barricades freeway ramps in California, Continuing "exercises" ostensibly for more "peace-making" right here in the good ol' USA. to Makes sense to us
Most people sense a change, many know it because they choose to be informed. Can hear the jackboots in cadence clearly now.

Clinton's little European adventure meeting serious resistance in tiny Yugoslavia. No easy capitulation, tremendous expenditure of men, material, aircraft, and resources and good will. Clinton, being the moral coward he is, forgot it's the fight in the dog, not the dog in the fight.

Russians may have serious economic and military readiness problems. Glastonst promises us deception and readiness, Sun Tzu when strong, feign weakness. When planning war talk of peace, nice doggie. if we can believe news reports, Russian war readiness continues to escalate. Do you think the congress will realize this ain't Texas their bombing, its the Warsaw Pack alliance by implication if not a direct challenge. Really one of two contenders for NWO domination.

Argument that bombing Chinese embassy in Belgrade is patently false. Gives Chinese excuse for war Calling up reserves sets dangerous precedent. Predictable for preparation for ground war. Clinton denial is assurance plans well underway.

Further, Clinton is considered an outright criminal by many in this country by blatant unconstitutional acts. Many in Congress grouped together by acquiescence and unchallenged usurpation of authority. To observe that the government does not have support of people and in fact whose "right" to govern is suspect would be an understatement.

Clinton disparage to start a real war. Russian wouldn't take bait. Needed to provoke China. Gave China carte blanche to do anything it wishes. Alienates citizens, provides backing for conflict of any kind anywhere.

Still, trying to convince the world's non-NWO nations that NATO/UN commitment to financially or financially bomb them into submission might not work.

Bill Clinton's legacy, if not crippling or world war may very well be the abnegation of nato and and un for a world communist USSR/China hegemony. We earned it. During times of turmoil who says stupidity can't be terminal.

Regardless of UN provisions which were violated, without censure it is presumed the aims of the UN are being impeded. Sends message to world. The US and client states of NATO is enemy. The advantages smaller communist nations sought to compel extract from the rich countries is fragile indeed with the wolf at large. Wary indeed are the second the third world countries.

Dangerous still is the potential for war for while the US is diminished and disarmed, the former Soviet Union is not. With the potential for Y2K disruptions near, the warmaking power of the US severely diminished, its now or maybe never. Chance in a lifetime The consequences/realities of Systematic destruction of military.

glasnost/deception.

IF not planned as a means of population control, represents terminal stupidity.

Maybe, maybe not. To heck with the computer problem, looking out over the precipice view is looking pretty dim.

Even if not military suicide, its certain diplomatic suicide. Bill has finally gone into political bankruptcy internationally. Clinton acts as if Russia no longer matters. Looks like a good point of disagreement to base a war on. A ticket to perpetual war, the permanent crisis that demands obedience and obeisance.

If the Russians believe the IMF money cow is dry. There is nothing left to lose. They certainly will not accede to a NATO humanitarian military presence.

And we thought it was the duty/function of government to recognize unorganized consitutional militia . Spontaneous reassertion/reanimation of material right to militia

PREPAREDNESS SITREP

Plan For Worst; Hope For Best

Survival factors. There are three primary functional factors to assuring survival during crisis events: preparedness, divine protection and dumb luck. Of course, they're interrelated. There is an element of religion in preparedness; the Bible admonishes repeatedly believers to be prepared. Some maintain there is often a divine element in dumb luck. But of course there is also bad luck which most often the absence of divine protection because you were too stupid to prepare or even to go somewhere safe (location). exercise sufficient common sense to get out of the way.

Prepare for what? Well, take your choice. Do we thrive on fear? No, there is a good peace of mind that comes with providing for the unexpected. If we see trouble coming and prepare for it.

The chances of that are about as likely, we think, as ... There is no doubt that some limited success would be assured in the event of a major contrived crisis, particularly if it affected food supply. If you are serious about remaining free, you MUST remain independent. Perhaps not completely divorced from the system. If you do not ensure your autonomy by stocking sufficient long term food resources you are vulnerable for plucking.

Stating obvious, but then again, must don't have a clue

As has been previously observed Noah prepared for 120 years for what was coming. Of course you could rely upon divine providence. Joseph of course would be pissed, it took him seven fat years to prepare for seven lean ones. Noah would roll over in his grave. He had 120 years to demonstrate his commitment to survival and prepare for hard times. And that's only the old testament. MARRIED TO THE TRAMP

The Lady Who Couldn't Say No

KEEP IT SHORT AND SIMPLE

Important to know your enemy; maintain just as important to know your friends. You need to have and depend on friends. NRA busy out cultivating a nice little crop of mushrooms. Need to see fertilizer.

Important lesson here. Seduced by suits and kind words. Not a gripe session; got to know friends too, NRA isn't

It's now perfectly clear. better to know who you are in bed with W/o resolve to act the armed citizen might as well turn weapons to whatever passes as the current gangster and return to serfdom.

Now don't get excited and hackles up all defensive. Consider something beyond the fluff. Think about what was said and more, what it means. it's significance is profound. Think about what it means. Slow consideration of implications. Not simply slip of tongue but leadership policy, direction guidance,

No doubt there are many well-intentioned members of the NRA who are loyal patriotic citizens.
Believing in the leadership believing its really there. Lest we get carried away looking to the NRA for leadership. Is it the best there is? Are we remiss in criticising even a well-intentioned, if bumbling, co-worker in the cause of freedom.? If that were but so, perhaps

We're more than willing to give the other fella the benefit of the doubt, we're not overly bright, but we generally believe what people tell us. Let's for example take the closing remarks from the NRA Annual Meeting by Mr. Heston (www.nrahq.com/transcripts/denver_close.snum):

“But our essential reason for being is this. As long as there is a Second Amendment, evil can never conquer us.

Tyranny, in any form, can never find footing within a society of law-abiding, armed, ethical people.

The majesty of the Second Amendment, that our Founders so divinely captured and crafted into your birthright, guarantees that no government despot, no re negade faction of armed forces, no roving gangs of criminals, no breakdown of law and order, no massive anarchy, no force of evil or crime or oppression from within or without, can ever rob you of the liberties that define your Americanism.

And when they ask, “So indeed you would bear arms against government tyranny?” ... the answer is, “No. That could never happen, precisely because we have the Second Amendment.”

Let me be absolutely clear. The Founding Fathers guaranteed this freedom because they knew no tyranny can ever arise among a people endowed with the right to keep and bear arms.

That's why you and your descendants need never fear fascism, state-run faith, refugee camps, brainwashing, ethnic cleansing, or especially, submission to the wanton will of criminals.

The Second Amendment. There can be no more precious inheritance. That's what the preserves.”

After wallowing in the platitudes, and empty rhetoric and touchie feelies for a moment consider what the man actually said. Let's get to the heart of the issue. Here is a speech designed to make members seep in the warm fuzzies; a speech certainly reviewed, if not at least in part prepared by legal counsel expert in the Second Amendment.

Heston maintains your liberties can not be removed, tyranny cannot “find footing” in our society. Why then do we document year after year more government atrocities? Why then do we have laws that pledge our nation to complete disarmament, subjugation to a foreign (UN) power and steady, yet massive erosion of our Second Amendment Rights?

To accept the premise that mere possession of arms is sufficient to maintain liberty is, in essence, to rely on divine intervention to save one's own unworthy butts because you didn't have the gumption to even speak up. Heston is directly degrading our ability to resist, and dereliction of duty of the citizen soldier to remain prepared to perform his function.

Would we, presumably the NRA, bear every weapons against government tyranny. “No” we are assured by Mr. Heston, the simple possession of firearms somehow ambiguously guarantees they will never be needed.

Well now, that about skins the carcass and see if there's any meat on the bones.

Mr. Heston has done a remarkably good job of psychologically emasculating any of the NRA membership that buy into this crap, effectively. The Founders of this nation could not guarantee our liberty, at best they could only provide for the means to guarantee it. They understood that at some future time when government tyranny threatened, the people as the militia, would have the resources to ensure their freedom. However, even they understood that without the will, the resolve to use those weapons they might as well capitulate to serfdom. A man or woman is no more capable of defending liberty than Words, even laws guarantee nothing without the political power to enforce them. Mr. Heston would have us psychologically emasculated, feeling safe in our comfort zone, encouraging nothing, having to do nothing to preserve our liberties except cede to the blind leadership of the NRA which constantly capitulates to the forces which would disarm us. A dog with no teeth, Mr. Heston, has no bite and few knowing of the omission, pay attention to the bark.

Heston assures us we need never fear fascism, yet the forces of fascism are at work all around us.

Wayne LaPierre bemoans that the NRA is so “widely mischaracterized” in his presentations. It seems to us the NRA may be less mischaracterized than he suggests. The government controlled press certainly has a fine target in mischaracterizing the NRA. When it comes to defending the Second Amendment

Mr. LaPierre says the “whole process of gun legislation, in a very real way, is becoming phony.” No kidding, the problem is, left up to the NRA, so is its defense.

We all take comfort that the NRA is for enforcement for convicted criminals. Freedom is not free, Mr. LaPierre and a properly armed citizenry would make not only enforcement but the attractiveness for criminal misadventure far less attractive. Mr. LaPierre calls for yet more laws to the many currently being unenforced. The sheer volume of laws and jurisdictions no doubt contributes to enforcement problems, yet LaPierre advocates yet more laws. Just one more, eh Mr. LaPierre, and our security and freedom will be secure, the problem will be solved, sure. But, to cut to the bone, we observe that the NRA remains a staunch defender of the instant check and government permits for concealed carry. While also bemoaning the fact that agencies continue to use the data for database on firearm owners LaPierre assues us the NRA:

“... will consider instant checks at gun shows when, and only when, this Administration stops demanding new gun taxes and stops illegally compiling the records of millions of lawful gun buyers”.

The premise in the response is taht the Second is not an inalienable right. For to believe the latter would make a farce out of the former that some form of registratin is Presumably at some point the right is not inalienable

Is it a question of “reading too much” into a statement of political position or is it a reaction to a protent of things to come for what is promised is often delivered. Do you want what was promised? Are you willing to compromise your leadership to those willing to compromise your rigjhts well you’re doing pretty well.. Will your compromise cancel theirs? Do two wrongs make a right. Is the right absolute or subject to compromise. If so, how long will it last. Some say the NRA has done a fine job coordinating gun rights defense activities at the state level. But how long will your rights last if subverted at other levels. Isn’t it remarkable, its always one step forward, two steps back.

Presumably more than casually acquainted iwth the history of firearms confiscation, yet advocates submission to registration under another name. Understandign taht the governmetn never keeps its obligations, NRA accepts the premise of registration if it can only be convinced in the integrity of government.

What is the message here? It’s a siren song of complacency. He tells us freedom is cheap, it’s only as expensive as annual dues. It rests with simple ownership of arms. It does not require anything but casual commitment, no understanding, no responsibility. No investment. Don’t need to DO anything. Fosters complacency, irresponsibility. Leave it to us. Nothing to fear.

Do it well enough and the NRA will effectively disarm its impressionable members as effectively as denying them ammunion or the will to use it.

Together we understand the NRA advocates more laws, even when many others go unenforced, considers preys on the gullibility of its members for NRA assurrances of no further capitualtion. Messers. Heston and LaPierre apparently do not understand the the meaning of “shall not be infringed” any more than those they theoretically oppose.

OK this is some sort of public contest to see who is stupider the NRA who seeks to convicne members it can compromise its way to freedom, or members taht buy into the idea that an inalienable right can be defended with words alone and is not an absolute right.

founders affirmed our right to provide for our own defense, governemtn was supposed to secure those rights, it has no authroity to steal them. that’s why the militia is independent and guaranteed.

Even good intentioned folks in the NRA evidently cling to the lie. that it can’t happen here.

We like the NRA for the promotion of firearms safety, hunting and sportmanship. When it comes to defending the Second, let's not kid ourselves any longer, leadership it ain't.

government instituted for safety and security not usurpation. Infringement is usurpation. What does Mr. Heston call it?

Our Founders found that words alone were insufficient to compel concessions from the King's government. When they marched on Lexington and Concord, the militia had arms, and their simple possession were no deterrent then, why would a presumably intelligent and informed leader suggest the nature of man and tyrant, is such different today, particularly given the actions of this government in foreign countries. that we would accept the lie of

The 2nd must be defended as an absolute, and inalienable right. Congress has no right, none to infringe the right to keep and bear arms. There is no security without it. Words are. Mr. Heston understands that a firearm without cartridges is simply a club. Having emasculated the gun owning public to them eschew/forgo arming & preparation he capitulates the NRA to would be tyrants by encouraging contesting the onslaught and committed government to committed to forceful disarmament, opposing with words rocks and fancy clubs, all for lack of facing reality and preparedness. How will, the NRA enforce rights in the future?

this is gun control just as sure and as effective as government control its people control

Demonstrate the NRA belief that the Second is not an inalienable right.

NRA is such trappings of conservatism. Flowery language, politically correct conservatism, not too radical. Middle of road approach

But something is drastically missing

Why always one step forward two steps back... always

Only about three

The ONLY reason they listen to you now is because of what you own, your potential to use them
Not willing to fight or die for freedom, but willing to compromise for it. Recipe for disaster

Only three

A lot of things in life are not what they appear to be. Deceit and illusion surrounds, age of deceit.

The NRA we understand has been Connecticut

The issue of disarmament is so critical. In the final analysis you have no political power w/o means to project force. But means are not enough, must have the will to do so.

without arms and the will to use them the protection of tyranny by words alone and law is a mockery

I fyou think these guys are your friends or friend to the Constitution neither your ears or eyes are connected to your brain.

An inalienable right MUST be absolute for it to be inalienable. It subject to compromise its not inalienable. if not inalienable what is it worth? For those who compromosie, what are they worth?

The result, citizens not the master, not even subjects, but serfs. Is this leadership? or cringing submission in a business suit?

Ill rejoin the NRA when its leadership understands when to say “no” to infringement.

The lady who couldn't say no.

Decked out in all her finery can hardly recognize her for her nature, everybody knows who she is. Nobody want to admit shes not a lady.

But like the first woman who couldn't say no, couldn't reject being compromised, decided the only hones thing she could do was to make it a business. Therein lies the guile. The oldest profession is deceit. Man flock to her wanting to think they get love, when they only get taken.moments satisfaction instead of lasting comfort. Nature of the harlot. everybody knows what she is, she'll tell you. no one wants to believe they are the patsy.

But this lady steals not a few idle minutes, for a few minutes of self congratulations and a few dollars, think you buy freedom when compromise values, but you buy the lie.

All this is disgusting. If any of this upsets you a sure cure is to go out and buy more ammunition; maybe buy an unregistered firearm.

SHOT IN THE FOOT... TWICE

We now learn that the NAACP is bring ing suit to firearms manufactures, not indeed for money, but to stop sales in disadvantageed [inner city] areas. Too much violence we hear. Now that's quite a turnabout. We recollect that after the Civil War many legislatures passed what became known as “Jim Crow” laws. These were laws designed, among other things, to prevent the negro population from enjoying the rights of citizenship particularly the right to firearms. Thus restricting the right of self-defense, the negro commnity was prey to racist . Black militias brought an end to depradations of such groups as KKK precisely because they were able to effectively defend themselves.

Now we have come full circle. Finding themselves unable to cope with violence in their neighborhoods, instead of claiming the right of citizenship and the naturla right to self defense. NAACP is begging governemtn through the courts, to disarm them. To do to themselves what the real racists want; convince them selves that it is better to be victims then citizens and capitulate to the socialist . Must sound like a good solution to somebody.

Throughout history the rights of free men have been selectively awarded or withheld from select groups of citizens on the basis of religion, race, social class and other measures as determined by the controlling class. In early American history firearms were highly restricted to the indigenous indian populaiton, and later the negro. Concerns about reliability prejudices of the day. Later racial qualifications for participation in the militia varied from state to union laws throught the late 1800's. Next to the right to vote free blacks where opportunity presented generally were scrutinized by the white population to ensure that such use was consistent with what was then construed as proper use.

Following the War for Southern Independence sougthern states passes a series of Jim Crow, or "black codes", which severely restricted the right of newly freed black population to the vote, firearms and other rights of full citizenship. Much of those years was one of repression of black citizens to enjoy full rights of citizenship, in cluding the right to own firearms. Such repression, which was not confined to the South perhaps found its extreme in the terrorist attacks by the Ku Klux Klan after 1866.

The willingness of some blacks organize militia groups and use firarms in self defense were instrumental in reducing the number and severity of violent acts. Years later many blacks, believing in the necessity of maintaining firearms for personal protection, provided assistance and protection to the fledgling "civil rights movement" including the NAACP. That brings us to today.

It is with interest we find the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) under President Kweisi Mfume joining with the cities of Cleveland, Chicago, New Orleans, and Boston in bringing suit against gun manufacturers. The purpose we udnerstand is to force a reduction in available firearms to inner city dwellers.

Blacks find themselves caught on the horns of a socialist dilemma. Having overcome racial repression to finally realize the full rights of citizenship includign the right to firearms and self-defense they find themselves in the position of abdicating those very rights of free men and capitulating to another form of totaliarian slavery. Fail to understand that placing the means of self-defense solely in the hands of the state is an abdication of natural as well as civil rights and a repudiation of the rights of citizenship and the responsibilities that go along with it. Which is it to be Afro-American or American?

“... communism is nothing but a receivership of a socially and economically bankrupt nation whree the dictatorial receiver will not voluntarily return power to the people - the stockholders - without pressure and intervention from outside, or until the dictators' solitary judgment leads the nation back into an economic and social dead end.

The leaders in the Kremlin do not share our live-and-let-live philosphy, “coeixstence” propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding. They ahve purged, starved, and killed in one way or another twenty million of thier own people to achieve domination of their own country. They will not hesitate to kill many millions more to achieve world domination.

Therefore, barring instantaneous disintegration of the Soviet state from within, war is inevitable. The disintegration must be instataneous, because, at the first sign of serious unrest as a prelude to revolution, the commissars will plunge the world into an atomic holocaust to save their own skins. “It’s also interesting to note that armed citizens shoot and kill at least twice as many criminals as police do every year. With the recent passage of concealed carry laws in various states, there is finally overwhelming evidence that armed citizens actually reduce and deter crime.” Steve Baughman, May, 1999, Tactical Shooter.

“There is one disturbing trend though, that seems to be cropping up more and more. The so called “violent home invasion” is unfortunately becoming more common. Several that have occurred recently in my part of the country involved groups of 3 or more perpetrators, and included forcible entry to commit violent crimes (murder, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) during both daylight and under the cover of darkness.” Steve Baughman, May, 1999, Tactical Shooter.

Federal Hiring Policy wrt Psychiatric Disabilities:

Executive Order 13124, June 4, 1999 is entitled Amending the Civil Service Rules Relating To Federal Employees With Psychiatric Disabilities. You won’t believe this. To ensure “equality of opportunity” and “full participation” Clinton has issued a hiring directive to give those with “psychiatric disabilities” the same hiring opportunities as those with or severe physical disabilities. Not to diminish those, but see it as simply confirming hiring and promotion of psychiatically disadvantaged, presumably including the criminally insane, to government posts. Given the history of government actions we see this as simply an affirmation of past practices, not a new initiative. We presume that the term “going postal” will become an officially recognized definition.

Brazil Formally Joins New World Order:

The New York Times reports on a recently adopted law in Rio De Janeiro which went into affect on June 7th prohibits the sale of guns and ammunition to any but police and security officers. President Fernando Henrique Cardoso has proposed additional legislation to completely ban firearms ownership from all but a few of the nations 165 million people. The proposed bill provides for owner compensation if surrendered within one year. After that firearm possession would be punishable by a jail sentence up to 2 years.

DEFINING THE MILITIA Defining The Militia

Periodically must do this for new readers and old who forget sense of purpose, belonging

Constitutional militia is simply all armed citizens who are not in an organized militia, ie. the armed forces. NCCM, simply name for all armed citizens in North Carolina. Yes, all citizens, regardless of race, color, religion, national origin. who are united, not “anti-government” as propaganda would have citizens believe, but those who are united in one thing, preserving our form of government and the constitutional rights of All citizens. Citizens with no bone to pick against anything or anyone; tolerant of aberrant personal beliefs and right to expression, ... Anything less, or more, is not a constitutional militia and if told otherwise, pure and simple propaganda. The enemy is governmental power; who would like nothing better to stimulate confrontation and conflict between races, differing economic situations, etc. . US Code makes almost every citizen a member of militia. quote

History is often written in a moment, the moment when a majority of the governed recognize they have been had. Throughout history Americans have believed that moral behavior is based on tradition, honor, respect and duty. Without a strong legal code based on sound moral principles a nation degenerates into chaos and anarchy. How people respond to crisis. Whether rise to occasion or fail. In times of deep distress, the Old Testament said “Every man did that which was right in his own eyes.”

Law of land is no longer inviolable standard.

The militia is not a group, a committee, army or squad, it is made up of individual men. That's where it gets its strength. From individuals individually committed to common cause of liberty.

Militia is the true citizen army.

Militia is whole of the people, etc QUOTE

Simply include definition of militia 10 USC??

The militia fairly benign made up of concerned non-violent middle americans; hair bristle on back of neck with talk of disarmament. but create the monster by poking, prodding, villifying and displaying the character of a tyrant, bully, and you create the pit bull that once gets a grasp of the idea realizes its a fight to the death on any terms you choose, defensive yes, but defense with full intention of winning.

What is to fear:

“A standing military force, with an overgrown Executive will not long be safe companions to liberty. The means of defense against foreign danger, have been always the instruments of tyranny at home. Among the Romans it was a standing maxim to excite a war, whenever a revolt was apprehended. Throughout all Europe, the armies kept up under the pretext of defending, have enslaved the people.” James Madison, Debate On State Equality in The Senate (June 28-July 2, 1787) The Anti-Federalist Papers

What do you suppose prompted militia Captain Parker and his 70 to stand in defiance to a British column on Lexington Green on xxxxx . What motivated 4000 unorganized militamen to face an overwhelming force of the finest soldiers in the world on Breeds Hill? And why did so many endure the privation and ... at Valley Forge during the winter of .xxxx .. It was because they had the absolute certainty that their cause was just and they were lawful resistance to tyranny.

“Little more can reasonably be aimed at with respect to the people at large than to have them properly armed and equipped; and in order to see that this be not neglected, it will be necessary to assemble them once or twice in the course of a year.” Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist Papers, No. 29

The right to the militia belongs to the people, not the government

“... but if circumstances should at any time oblige the government to form an army of any magnitude that army [i.e., the organized or select militia] can never be formidable to the liberties of the people while there is a large body of citizens, little if at all inferior to them in discipline and the use of arms, who stand ready to defend their own rights and those of their fellow citizens. This appears to me the only substitute that can be devised for a standing army, and the best possible security against it, if it should exist.” Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Papers No. 29

Patrick Henry concerned over the control of the militia, helped give rise to Bill of Rights

“Of what service would militia be to you, when most probably you will not have a single musket in the State; for as arms are to be provided by Congress, they may or may not furnish them. Let me here call your attention to that part [i.e., the Constitution] which gives the Congress power, “To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia, according to the discipline prescribed by Congress.” By this, Sir, you see that their control over our last and best defence, is unlimited. If they neglect or refuse to discipline or arm our militia, they will be useless.” Patrick Henry, speech on June 5, 1787, On The Ratification of the Constitution, The Anti-Federalist Papers, p. 206.

Concern over direct government authority over militia also expressed by

“It might here be shown, that the power in the federal legislature, to raise and support armies at pleasure, as well in peace as in war, and their control over the militia, tend, not only to a consolidation of the government, but the destruction of liberty...” Brutus, Essay I, October 18, 1787, attributed to Robert Yates, New York Judge in the New York Journal, The Anti-Federalist Papers, p. 273

This is what resulted clear unambiguous charge for the body of citizens to act as the militia:

“17th. That the people have a right to keep and bear arms; that a well-regulated militia, composed of the body of the people trained to arms, is the proper, natural, and safe defence of a free state; that standing armies, in time of peace, are dangerous to liberty, and therefore ought to be avoided, as far as the circumstances and protection of the community will admit; and that, in all cases, the military should be under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power.” Proposed Additions [to the Constitution] By the Virginia Convention; A Proposed Bill of Rights (June 27, 1788), The Anti-Federalist Papers. p. 221

The world is full of idiots and loafers and probably always will be. But why do so many of them have to be politicians?

So what is this discussion as to whether militia organizations are lawful. Understanding that the right to self defense is a “natural right” preexisting government and affirmed by government (supposed to defend that right). Then citizens through the states created government. Legal is a tenuous term indeed. Citizens made government and the law. Citizens organizing under the law cannot be lawfully challenged.

MILITIA REPRESENTS ULTIMATE IN PEACE THROUGH STRENGTH

Heard it said that this is the only situation in history where patriotic groups seek to restore or return a legitimate government operation, not to change the government.

Prompts professional military dilemma; what does a military officer do. confronted with a primary mission to protect and defend the constitution and in practice to carry out the policy of civilian leadership (government) representing the interests of the US on a national; and international theatre. where to jump. career or mission some maintain that the “right” of citizens to a militia has been abrogated or legislated away. Nonsense, the right is being reasserted a natural right cannot be taken by government. government “legalities” aside it is the people who decide whether they can assert their natural right to self-defense, not government.

“There is something so far-fetched and so extravagant in the idea of danger to liberty from the militia that one is at a loss whether to treat it with gravity or with raillery; whether to consider it as a mere trial of skill, like the paradoxes of rhetoricians; as a disingenuous artifice to instill prejudices at any price; or as the serious offspring of political fanaticism. Where in the name of common sense are our fears to end if we may not trust our sons, our brothers, our neighbors, our fellow-citizens? What shadow of danger can there be from men who are daily mingling with the rest of their countrymen and who participate with them in the same feelings, sentiments, habits, and interests? Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist Papers, No. 29 is it out of respect for militia. NO arrogance has no limits. they simply rely on sense of how much they can push at one time to get to long term goals. Ergo, look for another and larger gun incident. Give them exsue they need to pass the confiscation laws. obviously we'll just have to have another better/bigger gun atrocity to nudge the lawmakers in the write direction or at least give them the excuse needed to do the dirty deed.

Identifying Socialists:

How do you tell a socialist. If politician, someone who maintains we live in a democracy. If an individual, anyone willing to commit others money/taxes for their chosen cause without approval.

How do you tell if a person is a communist or useful idiot: take every opportunity to disparage patriots and citizen militia groups. The social misfits of the eighteenth and nineteenth century are alive and well in the twentieth. The men and women representing the citizens have long lost the commitment to liberty and no longer have the character, honor, integrity to be considered such.

“America is not slouching toward totalitarianism, it is rushing headlong toward it. It is disregarding more than 200 years of historical lessons, the prophetic cautions of the geniuses who invented this country. It is forgetting what made America great -- its Constitution, its acceptance of freedom and responsibility and its commitment to a morality etched in men’s hearts from the beginning and defined in words beginning with the Ten Commandments.” Joseph Farah, WorldNetDaily, 1/26/99.

The regional securith agency known as NATO was formed pursuant to Chapter 7, Article 52 of the UN Charter. Article 52 provides for reginal agencies to conduct enforecemtn action under its authority, but not by regional authority with out approval of Securith Council. Clinton used own initiative, at directive of socialist Spanish commander to fulfil Article 53 states UN can use regional agents for authority under authorization of Security Council.

Message from militia; generally understood, but misconceptions about constitutional militia may be desirable to state it for politicians and hacks... citizenship is not free, it comes with responsibilities. That is that government was established to PROTECT unalienable rights, all of them. While certain limitations apply...not yelling fire in crowded area, violations of rights of others ... very limited and to Concept so simple even Yankees can understand it: we are armed and will remain so; arms will be used lawfully with respect for persons and property of others for training and other lawful purposes ... Make no mistake, the lawful constitutional militia, made up of citizens loyal to the constitution does not advocate and or tolerate those who use arms to perform lawful acts, intimidate political change, or intimidate anyone fear or Understand your laws consider mere possession of arms to be an intimidating factor which you may use to classify firearms owners as terrorists, indeed, mere possession is intended to be an adversarial relationship. The armed citizen conversely interprets government efforts to legislate against ownership as provocation to people; efforts to train our and foreign military as tools to be used against American citizens incentive to continue arming as contingency against tyranny.

Lies, lies and more lies, openly discussed in all circles.

Clinton has given away the nuclear bullets and the guns. Stuffed the bank with cash, cashiered the guards put the congress/sheriff to sleep and tied dumbing them down, and now sits, black ninja suit and hood at the ready, ready to drive the getaway car. Do you think they'll take the bait?

MUTUAL ASSURED SURVIVAL

brief quotations in critical reviews only

"Since at least 1958 the policy of the United States government has been to make deals with the enemy, both the Soviet Union and Communist China. For almost thirty years our government has been signing one agreement after another with the Soviets. Ever since President Nixon's unwise visit to Red China in 1971, we have been signing the same kind of agreements with that nation, which also wants us eliminated from the face of the earth.

Our deals with the Soviet Union have been mostly "peacemaking" agreements. These are arms-control (or disarmament) agreements made under the delusion by our politicians and diplomats that pieces of paper signed with a proven liar are better protection than weapons, or "walls" intended for the defense and protection of our own people.

Our government officials also encourage businesses, farmers, bankers, scientists, engineers, oilmen, and traders to aid, sell to, and lend money to the enemy in the hope that we will be building a bridge of mutual interests between the "East and the West," as they are prone to call the present struggle to the death between freedom and slavery.

Business and financial institutions are quite happy to respond to such governmental encouragement because they think they can gain large short-term profits from what they have long believed to be an unlimited market. Their problem is that they are not thoughtful enough to realize what the enemy does with the goods: It uses them to weaken the West, and America in particular.

Thus, they do not realize that in the end they will be put out of business by the communists, hung by the rope they sold them.... Such deals have backfired on our government, our people, and our businesses. The arms-control agreements are tragic and utter failures. The Soviet Union, as we noted earlier, cheats on every agreement...

The trade deals also are failures. All we did by the financial aid we gave the communists was to form billions of dollars worth of debts that the Soviet Union, Red China, and their satellites have no intention of repaying. Thus, the communists virtually "own" the international banks that have so foolishly lent this money. All we did was to prop up the failing economy of the Soviet Union so that it could continue to spend money in building up its already massive military force...

Dealing with the enemy is always dangerous. History is strewn with the ruins of nations and civilizations that thought they could safely deal with their enemies." Mutual Assured Survival, The Right Reverend Albion W. Knight, Jr., Brigadier General, USA (Ret.), Dominion Press, 1988.

Today it comes in the form of a dignified appearing executive in expensive business suit with someber reassurance and sometimes a smile indicating that someone else knoww what's best for us, and we better comply... or else

Many of the public, sensing that they received something less than an honest judgement, feel trust once again has been betrayed. .. hasve our fostering/engendering greater hostile public opinion instead of resolution.

Problem is that most do not recognize just how big a travesty has occurred. Consequences will be short in coming and long in impact.

Few of us wre around during the depression to experience the drastic affects of the socialist programs of the banking crisis. This provises opportunity to see perfidity of government in action for those who have eyes to see. Eventually, the reality will fail to be hidden by the petty rationalizations of our “leaders” and the crumbling foundataions will be for all to see. Denial is a wonderful thing

Evidently any lame excuse will serve the public Proof almost any lame excuse will do from the absurd to the sublime:

And you will learn some interesting things about the paramilitary security guards serving as employees of private corporations known as the FBI and BATF which are not legitimate elements of Constitutional government and have no jurisdiction in the states unless directly given by the governor of that state. and the true nature of . You people disgust me with your ignorance.

Warfare begins with language, when two groups speak different lanauagate with different meanings it must be for the purpose of changing ideology. Patriotism vs socialist global NWO for example. On the latter side truth/lanugage bent to serve ends, where meanings change to fit political convenience. Thosw who pervert language/truth propose ideological systems which are obseccessed with converting world in their image by any means.

Some maintain we cannot get by in new world with respect to old out-moded “traditional” values and meanings. Change is indeed inevitable. But fundamental truths are just that... fundamental... just as valid today as ever. No new reality to discover.

People literally fear to understand what is going on, developing mindset of intentional ignorance borne of fear.

Chapter 2: The Sekret Mission

It wasn’t so much the way he said it, but the sense of conviction and fatality in his voice that caused feathers in the coop to rise with excitement and apprehension.

“We decided the only way to break into the secret base was a full scale frontal assault!”, clucked Sarge, the plucky Barred Rock.

“So there we was, the whole company of us Chicken Milita, armed to the beak, in full camouflage, just outside the base perimeter and ready to storm the gate at first light,” continued Sarge.

“We all knew it was gonna be a real rotisserie of a battle; at least, that is until Dawn came up”, continued Pvt. Hawker. “She jus’ up an’ said since it was a sekret base we oughta just send in a sekret agent.”

“We decided she was just a few kernals short of an ear”

“So Dawn and me put on these jackets that said Experimental Sekret Bird #1 and 2. Just after dawn, Dawn and me just strolled up to that gate and the Guard let us walk in pretty as you please!”

“Got ‘em! Didja, didja?...” clammered the bounding Turkeys as the tired column of Chicken militia trudged back to the farmyard. Sensing successful confrontation in the jerky stride of the Flock.

“Steady down, Birds”, have a little respect for the Birds of the Field”, said Bart stepping out of line to approach the gathering excited Flock.

“That there Internet is a sure thing ain’t it, obserreved a fat Turkey. Found all them armored cars, big guns and huge army buildin’ up in them woods did ya Boys? just like Internet said.

“Not exactly,” replied Bart, “We found an old Fox in a wheelchair, and Just beat all, locked they’selves in a pen every night and most all day.

BARNYARD FABLES #32:

Making Bail

“Awww cluck, cluck.... awww cluck, cluck,” Freddie knew he was a gonner.

Tired of the incessent moaning, even the Foxes had left

Floating tightly trussed inside the big, black kettle, Freddie had lots of time to think. Too much in fact; the water was was barely warm yet but the air was getting steamy inside the close thicket.

The trial had not gone well. To be sure, Judge Fox had cited all the rules and regulations and made sure he had a Foxy court-appointed lawyer who knew the rules so well he didn’t even need a book.

Freddie was proud of himself for demanding a jury trial. And to be certain, Judge Fox said he would jury-rig the trial and he sure did.

Sentenced to dinner

“Pssst, pssst,” Freddie shuddered thinking he heard the first sound of a slow boil.

“Pssst, pssst”, Freddie looking up shocked to see six beady eyes staring at him through the steam rising at the rim of the kettle.

“Shut up, Freddie” croaked one, “ “We’re here to bail ya out”

“OK, Birds, hand them cups up and get to bailin’

An’ the steam rose as Cups went in and the fire and Freddie were soon out.

The dark Birds quickly stuffed Freddie’s beak and doused him with the black ashes

A dark quarter mile from the thicket Freddie was untrussed and

One might ask whether there is a method behind this "random" madness
In and of itself Astounding coincidence

Bill Clinton school of ethics

Bill argues on public TV that children must learn to settle their differences and resolve conflict by dialogue, as he bombs hell out of a sovereign country.

Reluctant to stop methodical process to destroy constitutional processes. Makes shambles of society, destroy middle class, to ensure chaos disorder necessary to manipulate the strong center of America to accepting radical left socialist government. No less than organized criminal corruption/enterprise

Ahhh, Washington, where political corruption has become a polished art form. Where the law and oaths are sworn to give us a republic they promise us a democracy, where political promises are whispers in the wind, and words take on new meanings overnight. Expert in telling the public that they can have everything for free, at no cost to anyone, skilled in convincing others that the plain language of the Constitution that they have sworn to uphold to the letter, doesn't actually what it says. Remain "adepts" at interpreting language, forgetting promises and ignoring tomorrow for exigencies of today. Convince others that satisfying the greed of today will be of no consequence to the events of tomorrow.

The reason we are telling you these things and spicing them up with quotes from historical figures who can reflect great wisdom is that we can't do so as well as those who went before us. We understand that we are not talking to the willfully ignorant masses. But we need a way to figuratively shake those with intelligent minds that work and eyes that can see of the inevitable consequences of subversion by government you by the shoulders. We are telling you wake up! To tell you that you are losing your country and your freedoms. We are not smart enough to talk as well as those that went before us.

Perhaps that is why men gravitate to average combat distances of 125 yards face off and 500 meters may be practical extreme for most rifles and shooters. Sort of defines at what distances you should seek proficiency and where paintball might be prudent to develop practical skills.

Indeed, individual and group role in the militia should be pretty much be self evident with respect to weaponry. Demands of the mission must be a balanced mix of consistency for smaller semiauto cartridges capable of high volume support fire and larger calibers capable of greater distances and penetration. Groups must consider uniformity and mix of rifles in planning efforts.

In the scheme of things someone with keen mental faculties, a sound knowledge of the concepts of natural rights and steeped in the concept of personal and national liberty is far more dangerous than one simply armed without purpose. An individual with ideals and the ability and willingness to share these with others is a formidable opponent to encroaching tyranny on a dumbed down nation.

Just because the militia, the whole of the armed citizenry, exists is it inherently dangerous. Of course not. Is a loud man? Hardly ever. Is an angry man? Perhaps, but generally only to the object of the anger and unfocused by irrationality.

Can any man be considered "dangerous", yes. Those without principle and those with it. Those poorly principled may be mean and floundering. The first for what they may do to others with no remorse to personal aggrandizement. The second, the principled, for knowing the first and the difference.

Do you know the difference? Understand the principles?

cheat, steal, murder, intimidate, whatever. They're still there. And until the government adheres to its pledge and obligation for republican government, this country is not out of the woods at all, but buck naked in the briar patch.

Regardless of outcome with Clinton gone any semblance of leadership, even gangsterism, is evaporated. Congress was without resolve to do their duty, the credibility of Gore is a joke, Gingrich the , there is no leadership. When a country flounders it declines, its weakness is perceived by the wolves and conflict often grows in the vacuum of power. Congress continues to abnegate its legitimacy with unconstitutional legislation and the public is growing ever more wary. The Bush dynasty, barely off the ground, will never survive the Republic of Texas, a blight. Governors anywhere have been towing the NWO line. So without the Predator in Chief, the biggest convincing liar, since Roosevelt, just who will bullshit their way to a power base. Not the republicans, NWO patsys almost all.

we understand at highest levels in congress, to sanction wet teams to dispense with "terrorists". Heads of state are off limits but the rest of us, like little sovereign sudans and afghanastans are fair game. The definitions of terrorist are so broad so as to include libraries and schools are sources for terrorist training. Actual terrorists include literally anyone against corporate government. The issue being opposition, the need to eliminate dissent at any level for the corporate leadership so tenuous, it will not stand inspection at any level the perfidy to complete and disgusting.

Who owns your brain. Country makes claim to your body, work, possessions pledged with out consent to further debt building and control. Military makes claim to your body for war. But who owns your brain and the stuff in it? Public media, corporations sponsored commercials, political propaganda, all attempt to shape, mold, use fear to manipulate your mind, control your thoughts into a "legitimate" form. Evidently, they claim ownership, but admitally do not own, but must control your thought processes. Can they take that intelligence and use it for themselves, that's the role of persuasion. To control/limit your ability to think, use your intelligence. It works. But you still own your mind, sometimes. No organized movement, a consensus of individuals, each making his or her own decision, gathering supplies and equipment, from a thousand towns and cities. each stranger to another and with a common goals, values and beliefs.

How dumb does the President think we are?

New book Jerome Ageo. Words That Make America Great

It follows that if this form of government is only good for a moral and righteous people as stated by.... then what is that which is morally bad cannot be politically right (Madame Chaing Kai Check). We conjecture that Politics is a confidence game. If government does not convey confidence in its own status, it will not convey this confidence and authority to the public. Can the US remain the only world "superpower" if its government is anything but? Of course not.

Congress dithers on. Leadership languishes, our reputation and influence flounder worldwide, as fast as its credibility decreases at home.

The US will default on its debt. The world knows it, most Americans don't. Just part of greater fool game, that goes with fiat money Monopoly. Most Americans also think the change to an Asian type economy will be painless. It won't for us any more than for them. Economic judgement day has arrived in Russia. Its plainly coming in other nations. All the evidence indicates it's also coming to the US.

Maybe we ought to take a closer look at preparedness and leadership and related stuff.

To all:

Here is the latest issue of the Carolina Free Press. I regret it is a little late but I have been on somewhat of a vacation. If you have sent me correspondence I will be getting back to you shortly. >>

Greetings Jeremy,

I wanted to let you know that I recieved this message and that I appreciate you putting me on the mailing list for the CFP. I finally had time to download, print and read the entire message.

It is the sort of message that not only bears interesting news, stories, and pertinent info, it is quite entertaining as well. I particularly appreciate the candor, good advice, and insightful assessment of current events. The writing style and obvious intelligence of the contributors give this reader confidence, joy, chuckles, and hope. The Carolina Free Press shows me that there is hope that there are enough people who really know what is going on and are able not only to prepare themselves for the future but others as well.

Please continue to keep me on your mailing list for any and all news, advice and information.
I also wish to offer any assistance I may be able to provide from my end. I live in a small town about 30 miles SW of Chicago.

BARNYARD FABLES #26: The Clandestine Mission

Remember that by the time you hear we may be under a declared state of martial law the soldiers and gendarmes will have already been moving/underway. You will have at worst hours, at best perhaps a few days if you live in a rural area to get wherever you may wish to go if you so intend.

sheriffs highest elected authority in county. member of executive branch of government and not the judicial. is not an officer of the court

So if the militia and patriot movement is essentially harmless as some defenders of the omnipotent socialist state contend why then... Represents growing awareness of the masses to stark appearance of socialism and what it stands for in their midst. Or a vague comprehension of something not quite right in Mudsville? Probably the latter is more true.

It's not as if you have done nothing wrong you have nothing to fear. If you do nothing you have everything to fear.

GUess it stands to mention once again the militia and patriot groups in general have no intention to subvert or replace the "government" meaning the lawful constitutional republic as defined by the constitution. Seeks to encourage thorough accepted political processes change to revert from socialist trend and encourage elected representatives in the peaceful transition to honest, lawful government free from socialist institutions and processes.

Government has no authority than that which is strictly delegated to it by the Constitution. Where do we go. Defense of the Constitution, protection from abuse in proportion to the force projected to compel obedience to tyrannical acts. Can or even should we be more specific? Can we hope for unrestrained restoration of Constitutional principles. Probably not for such is human nature that some will always advance private agenda for personal or collective gain. But as the goal, yes. and unfettered expression of individual rights and the abolition of the collective.
Conclude

While the most dramatic and least desired manifestation of this ideological disparity may eventually be reflected in public retaliation in response to more Waco type incidents, if events come to that point the fundamental revolution will have been completed.

At the same time we preserve our right to self defense against tyranny acting only in response to actual or threatened violence, not in anticipation or contrived plans or goals to .

Little Armies; Big Armies:

As the federal government continues to fund and equip their little private armies throughout the US, turning every little sheriff's department into a little army, citizens increasingly and justifiably suspicious of their motives, and with no allusions regarding their proficiency compared to professional soldiers, are continuing to take notice. Their disapproval of the willing socialist takeover

Clinton in early December made public in early December presidential directive which stated we would do nuclear retaliation if attacked by chemical or biological attack.

conceding the retreat from MAD reduction in nuclear missiles, playing the game. retreating from the "protracted nuclear war" (six months?) perspective. looking to negotiate START 3 treaty when only US committed to START 2, Russia didn't.

New policy reportedly focuses on deterrence and not on fighting a nuclear war. why time to change from "protracted doctrine"? Russia might not be persuaded to adopt START 2 unless a final

Right to keep and bear arms is the highest measure of a free citizenry. If allowed to stand represents ultimate abrogation of congressional power and a warning to all Americans of the need to stand by the arms they possess, if they are to retain their freedoms.

Flies in the face of the legislative process which can be usurped so easily as a remedy to unlawful constitutional abrogation.

Government cannot recind our natural and sacred rights as embodied in the Constitution,. Will our public servants respond as such or acquiesce or in their silence acknowledge that world "order" requires it.

With the same vague sense of what constitutes "sporting" purposes one might conjecture whether hunting tyranny is a sport in the sense that those who pervert the law are fair game for free men under the constitution? Sport or duty?

Editors Sidebar:

I know, I know. This is not the right way to ingratiate oneself into the NWO way of doing things. It's hard to be adequately apologic. Since character doesn't count and accountability is out the window we really shouldn't chastise our "leaders" and their agency lackeys, particularly in front of our children, for daily debauching the constitution. Instead, we should be praising them for their creativity and persistence. I don't know about you. For us it's just going to take some practice, something just keeps sticking in our throat; gall, I think.

Some writers believe there is no chance of the US of A of avoiding tyranny as we continue to polish our goose step in fascist cadence into history. Attributed to fractionalization so severe no unified conceptual, moral or fundamental basis for consensus on problem and solution. Maybe we all ought to go home, cept for that human spirit to look for opportunity; needs our participation to succeed which should be denied.

Quotations so abundant from notable people in history abound which illustrate the evils of social machinations and the abuses of excessive governmetn, sovereignty of individuals. Illustrate lessons of history abundantly clear the direction and outcome of . We marvel that history is not fixed, but has inescable trends, actions have consequences.

We'll see together whether the NWO can hold on to that tail. Which is another way of saying that we appear to be rapidly approaching a "critical mass" where targeted classes of citizens with key political beliefs in the sanctity of the republic are getting more than somewhat irritated.

So history doesn't hold much optimism for resurgence of republican ideals, supports supposition of dictatorship, not that the NWO is inevitable. Lest we succumb to melancholy futility not part of our spirit. Indeed NWO motto should be that of the Borg: "resistance is futile" not order out of chaos. There is no order from chaos unless brought by morality, only more disorder/discord and friction between the governed and would-be governors who can't govern but must continue to rule through discord.

Doesn't mean need to bunker down, retreat from society, but to remain apart from foibles of society while in it. The partisan remains part but apart from the mass.

Will Joe Sixpack's realization of betrayal result in meaningless panic, and go flailing down the drain of history blindly goose-stepping to the drum beat of executive decree to oblivion. Or will Joe remember how to swim.

If you ask your congressperson if the Constitution still applies they will assure you it has not been abolished. They won't tell you it has been effectively overridden by executive decree. Ask why Congress never overrides unconstitutional Executive Orders or proclamations superceded annulled. Of course, they'll also tell you the Constitution provides for a democracy.

Resist evil does not advocate taking up arms and anarchy. Resistance must be lawful and in response to unlawfulness. Charged with bringing lawful order under God’s laws and those civil laws made thereunto.

Just like 1776 and 1996.

Believed civil government was ordained and established by God, but that the civil government so established had only limited authority. That is, limited to enforcement of law insorfar Constitution envisioned federal ogvernment with only powers delegated to it by the people, through the constitution (powers derived form consent of the governmed). Further that even the limited authority granted to that government was given only conditionally. The people themselves, the grantors, reserved the right to teminate their contract if those to whom the authirity was delegaed violated the laws of God and nautrre by suppressing the basic liberties of the people.

To police we might observe that as representatives of the magistrates must enforce laws lawfully above all nothing contridicts God’s laws or will face judgement for it.

1 Timothy 1:8-10 “But we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully; Knowing this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for eht lawlwss and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for man-slayers, for whoeremongers, for them that define themselves with mankind, for menseaalers, forliars, for the perjured persons, and if thee be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine...”

True authority lies with those who use the law lawfully to punish evil doers in accoudance . Law not made for righteous person.

Futher, the Declaration observes the right, even the duty, to resist unlawful authority. This then is the antithesis of Romans 13, which mandates obedience to lawful governmetn and conversely by defining the responsibility of lawful government mandates that Christians must resist unlawful governemtn when it runs contrary to God’s law.

God charged use of sword for proper llawful enforcement of laws, proper tool of government. Live by sword shall die by sword meant to apply to those who lived by plunder and violance literally unlawful measures. (Like mercenaries, Hessians?) Person defending self is not livign by sword but use of sword in lawful defense.

We have stopped short of defining when the lawful call to arms occurs, If just and lawful rrecourse to arms is justified we will know, we will know. aw will Those who honor the “higher powers” must also obey those civil authoriteis duty to obey in all righteous things. for all are subject to “higher powers”.

Premise of many Christians is that since all authority is from God and must be obeyed must first understand how Bible defines authority. Means that authority is borne of or derived from God Founders believed there was no escape from the tyranny before them. They petitioned time after time for redress of grievances to the king only to be ignored or spurned.

Gods authority protects the life of the righteous and those who do good works.

Fearful men, seedin gto avoid responsiblity tendency tocling to intrepartations that will require nothing of them .

Thou shall not steal, conversely conveyed biblical right to private property
Thous shall not murder, with other scrpiture, dictated that all men have a right to life

Constitution contains no specifidc reference to God, Founders fearful of wording which would mandate a state church and the need to avoid religeous references which could have caused diviosion and strife between varying protestant churches

According to Eidsmoe (1987) the Declaration is “a statement of the basic American values or principles: equality, God-given rights. The Constitution is the the means by which these rights are to be secured...”

Declarateion of Independence refers to “Laws of Nature and Nature’s God.”, and observes that “All men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among those are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.” This recognition of reflects in the universal belief of that time that man was subject to a higher [God’s] law and that civil governmetn and the laws implemented by that governmetn should conform to that higher law.

“Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty”. 2 Cor. 3:17

Eidsmore reflects taht Gods commandment “Thou shall not murder” (Exodus 20:13) confers a right to life; the admonition not to kidnap or enslave others confers a right to libery (Deuteronomy 24:7) and the commandment “Thou shalt not steal (Exodus 20:15) establishes a right to property.

Our constitutional governmetn was established in part to secure these rights, and to “Secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity.”

IN adopting the Cosntitution the Founders recognized that these and other enumerated and non-enummerated rights are not granted by Government, nor can Governmetn deprive their citizens of them. More specifically it is the primary duty and responsibility of government to secure these "unalienable" rights. God's established government was intended to be one of integrity, honesty, honest weights and measures, is this what we have today?

Having established the lawful authority and responsibility of government consistent with biblical laws, the Founders clearly defined the limits to lawful government to which all citizens must be obedient. It is a government of laws not of men, a higher authority.

To undermine the Constitution and the fabric of America, the globalists objective to remove God from our daily lives and substitute civil "rights" for unalienable, God-given rights is essential.

DEFINING "RIGHTS"

Taking Things For Granted

They included specific natural or "Biblical" rights retained by the people over which the federal government would have absolutely no authority to regulate. Liberties, including the rights of property, assembly, security, assembly and arms, were considered by the Founders of the Republic the gift of God. and recognized by the Constitution. It is the PRIMARY DUTY of government to ensure that these freedoms are never compromised.

The general public does not simply lack of understanding of the Constitution in general, but most importantly its central principle, i.e., limited government. Most consider government to limitations of government to consist of trimming bureaucratic staffs, miniscule reductions in the number of regulations, limiting porkbarrel projects, or whatever promises and constraints government may pledge to place limits on legalized thievery.

For anyone with the ability to read, the case is clear: undefined powers and authorities belong to the States or the people themselves. The presumptive power grab is a clear usurpation of states rights and a direct usurpation of the 10th Amendment.

The unconstitutional grab for total federal control continues with . Now who might you think would define federalism, the cat or the canaries?

Fears of anti-federalists

“One great object of the Executive is to control the Legislature. The Legislature will continually seek to aggrandize the perpetuate themselves; and will seize those critical moments produced by war, invasion or convulsion for that purpose.... Wealth tends to corrupt the mind and to nourish its love of power, and to stimulate it to oppression. History proves this to be the spirit of the opulent.” The National Executive, July 17, 19, The Federal Convention of 1787, Governor Morris.

“But we are told that we need not fear, because those in power being our Representatives, will not abuse the powers we put in their hands: I am not well versed in history, but I will submit to our recollection, whether liberty has been destroyed most you will find the balance on the side of tyranny.” Patrick Henry, June 5, 1788, on the Ratification Of The Constitution.
